Bancroft group plans meeting on waste dump

The Bancroft action committee is planning a public meeting to help stop the proposed dumping of radioactive waste at Madawaska Mines, six miles from Cardiff township.

While two meetings have been held in the past two weeks, with over 150 people attending, Bob Steinman, press secretary for the group said Monday that area residents are still not satisfied.

With this in mind, the group has invited many provincial and federal politicians to the meeting scheduled for June 11 at North Hastings High School in Bancroft.

Invited to discuss the matter are the ministers of mines and resources, natural resources, labour, environment (both federal and provincial), members of parliament from Hastings-Frontenac, Victoria-Haliburton and Quinte ridings, the chairman from the Atomic Energy Control Board, Hastings County warden, former Minister of the Environment Jim Taylor, Pollution Probe, representatives from the National Coalition for Nuclear Responsibility, Bancroft and District Chamber of Commerce, Madawaska Mines and councils from the townships of Herschel, Montegale, Farraday, Duncannon, Bangor, Winklow, McClure, Mayo, Carlo, Wallace, Limerick, Tudor-Cashel and the village of Bancroft.

Steinman explained as many involved politicians as possible are invited, so "no one can pass the buck". The nuclear waste which is to be trucked from Scarborough is expected to be on its way to the dump site within four to six weeks, Steinman said.

Although there are tailings of nuclear waste at the dump site now, Steinman explained the province has no place to dump its waste as yet, so this dumping operation could set a precedent.

Although the radiation level from the waste is expected to be low, Steinman said there is a chance that it could harm residents' health in the long term.

Brake lines cut in damage spree along Hwy. 503

A number of construction vehicles at a highway construction site on Highway 503 in Snowdon Township were damaged sometime overnight last Friday.

Police say brake lines were cut and a total of 46 tires were deflated.

In addition to lost time and general inconvenience, the damage was estimated at $665, police say.

Investigation is continuing.

Elementary students from Wilberforce entertained a capacity crowd at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre last Thursday evening. The students sang many songs

Bus breakdowns not reported, board trustees call for change

Concerned over a number of recent school bus breakdowns, the Haliburton County Board of Education is taking a "get tough" approach in its dealings with NorthernWays Transit Ltd., the major school bus operator in the county.

The board has indicated that unless the company reduces the number of breakdowns and immediately reports any breakdowns that do occur, it will consider throwing the routes open to tenders from other companies.

Consideration of problems surrounding busing came in the wake of strong protest from a number of parents in the Blairhampton area.

Trustee Cheryl Murdoch told the board last Tuesday that parents were up in arms about a series of breakdowns to a bus operating on route 20 through the area. They signed a petition calling for the bus to be replaced and were planning to state their case before the board, Murdoch said, but those plans were shelved at least temporarily when the problem-plagued bus was replaced by a newer model.

At the moment the parents are satisfied that the bus is running on time, Murdoch said, but she stressed the parents would send a delegation to the June meeting if any more breakdowns occur.

Business administrator Jim Leworthy indicated that a number of other breakdowns are not being reported to the board office. He said he had seen four buses break down in the parking lots of nearby schools while they waited to pick up students. The buses were replaced by others within a few minutes, he said, but the incidents were not reported to the board.

Director of Education Doug Hodgson, said board administrators "have been trying to get along" with NorthernWays but that "they seem to think that they don't have to do anything they're told to do".

"I'm not trying to be punitive, but I just think that your board office looks kind of stupid if parents phone asking where a bus is or why it's late and the administrators don't know," Hodgson said.

"We thought we had an understanding with NorthernWays (on reporting breakdowns), said transportation committee chairman Earl Cooper, "but apparently we don't".

"The way I see it, we're paying for a service and not getting it," trustee Derrell Stamp commented. "If they (NorthernWays) don't comply with the agreement, the routes are going to be tendered".

Trustee Cheryl Murdoch, who earlier in the meeting had advocated tendering the routes if problems continued, commented that there was "no excuse" for buses breaking down in school yards.

Trustee Leroy Eager claimed the breakdowns occurred because the buses "are not being properly maintained".

"They're definitely not maintaining these buses in roadworthy condition or they wouldn't be breaking down," Eager said. He suggested that some drivers may not be familiar enough with the mechanical details of the buses to know when trouble is likely to occur.

In the end, the board decided that it wants all breakdowns reported, and that it will reassess the situation in the fall.

But a spokesman for NorthernWays said in an interview Friday that he felt the whole matter was being "blown out of proportion".

"I don't think that there's as big a problem as some people are letting on," said Scott LaRue, a partner in the company.

LaRue said the question of breakdown reporting was

MNR agrees to study Hindon provincial park

by Sue Cooper

The Minden District of the Ministry of Natural Resources has agreed to re-investigate its future plans for Hindon Township after Anson, Hindon and Minden council expressed concern that the land, which is owned by the crown, remains closed to private development.

At a meeting of council, last Wednesday night, Don White and Jim Dewey, of the local office, Warren Ever-shad, planner and George Morose representing the parks branch in Huntsville, discussed the criteria for a provincial park and the advantage of allowing the activities now in progress to continue.

Council is concerned Hindon Township, consisting of 45,004 acres with 41,850 acres of crown land or 93 per cent of the acreage, might be restricted in its development.

"With the crown land that we have, it (Hindon Township) is stagnant," councillor Ed Pergolas told the MNR representatives.

But the MNR staff explain-

Increases planned in most departments

Minden sets '81 budget, mill rates rise by 8.4 %

by Sue Cooper

If Anson, Hindon and Minden council had its way, taxpayers would only be receiving an increase of about 3 mills in this year's budget, but with county and board of education levies included the rate increases are in the mid-thirties.

When all the accounts had been gone over, council had a 1981 budget of $1,717,992 with $686,893 being collected from the Haliburton County Board of Education and $141,088 allotted for county expenses.

The municipality's portion of the budget was set at $987,326, $65,710 more than last year's actual figures. Then, a 1980 surplus of $28,315, was included in the budget to bring it down to $950,011. Council took one more slash at the budget by using $60,000 from the working fund (an account used by the township to alleviate borrowing cost and to create an even cash flow) to lessen the taxpayers' burden to $890,011.

The board of education's levy increased from $605,028 in 1980 to $686,893 in 1981 and the county's allocation was raised from $105,448, last year, to $141,088 in 1981.

With the increase in the school board and county taxes increased by 33.306 mills for an average increase of 8.49 per cent. Municipal mill rates increased 3.139 mills, the county's portion increased 5.884 mills, the elementary school levy went up 11.941 mills and the secondary school levy was upped 12.342 mills. In commercial rates, the municipality asked for 3.693 more mills, the county required an increase of 6.920 mills, the elementary school system mill rate was increased 14.050 and the secondary school rate was upped 14.520.

Under residential, area one was assessed a levy of 423.339 mills in 1980, which was increased to 456.645 in this year's budget or 7.87 per cent; area two was upped from 387.339 mills to 420.645 or 8.60 per cent; area three's mill rate was set at 419.145, up from 385.839 in 1980 or 8.63 per cent; area four was levied with 421.145 mills, an increase from 387.839 or 8.59 per cent; area five's portion was set at 414.145 mills up from 380.839 or 8.75 per cent. (Each mill raises $1 per $1000 of assessment.)

On the commercial chart, area one mill rates were increased 44.477 mills or 9.03 per cent while the other four areas received increases of 39.183 mills. Area one's increase was larger due to a 5.294 mill increase to the water extension reservoir project. Increases in the other areas registered at: area two, 8.60 per cent, area three, 8.63 per cent, area four, 8.59 per cent and area five 8.75 per cent.

Group studies tourist train idea

A group of Haliburton Village businessmen are investigating the possibility of operating a small tourist train from the new Sky Slider ride this summer.

Although the group is hesitant to release its plans until all details are finalized, it is hoped the train, estimated to be the same size as those at the Canadian National Exhibition (CNE), will help tourists enjoy all the facilities in town.

The train would take passengers from the Sky Slider through the main street area, to the Railyard End Gallery, the Glebe Park Museum and other attractions in the village area, a spokesman for the group said Tuesday.

Before the train could become a reality, permission must be obtained to travel on the provincial highways in the village and also the Municipality of Dysart et al will be requested to partially subsidize the train proposal.

More details will be available when the plans for the project are finalized.

A large crowd was on hand at St. Anthony's church on Saturday to snap up the bargains that were offered in a lawn sale. Proceeds from the sale will go to the church's building fund. Fund-raising efforts for a new church have been underway for a year.

European tourists like Haliburton local lodge owners discover

by Sue Cooper

As many Europeans are looking towards Canada as their vacation destination, George and Carla Lansberger are ready (and willing) to entertain them in fine continental style.

George and Carla, owners of Haliburton Lodge for the past 17 years, broke into the European market just three years ago and now about 40 per cent of their clients are coming across the ocean for a relaxing holiday.

But what makes this lodge, nestled on Drag Lake in the northern wilderness of Haliburton County, a place where Europeans, and some very rich Europeans, want to spend up to four weeks of their vacation? Well, many things. And for George and Carla those things are difficult to explain but they make the Europeans feel at home.

"A rustic atmosphere is what they found here," Carla says. But, that is not all.

George and Carla have a definite advantage in dealing with Europeans since they are both from the continent. Carla is German and George, Swiss, so they also feel at home with Europeans. "Our language helps a lot," they confide.

George and Carla have a helping hand in promoting their lodge and the area in Europe. But it is not one that they do not deserve. About three years ago, an enterprising European brought his wife to this area and they spent four weeks travelling from one resort to another trying to find a place which all Europeans might enjoy. After two days at Haliburton Lodge it was chosen for the promotional package.

Needless to say, George and Carla are a little hesitant to reveal all their contacts which help filter their customers to them.

"It's something I'd rather not let anyone know," Carla says with a smile.

However, she did reveal a few facts that prove a good promotional package will bring people to a lodge's doorstep. But a good promotion also must be a true promotion, Carla said.

"You have to perform what you advertise," she said.

One of the things, George and Carla advertise is fine dining for both their Canadian and European visitors.

"Europeans are very spoiled in their cuisine," Carla says. But she always has grilled cheese sandwiches and hamburgers for them to try as well clear cut.

"The only breakdowns that should be reported are ones when buses are going to be late getting to school in the morning, or if they're unduly late getting home at night".

LaRue said that if a bus breaks down in a parking lot because, for example, a wire comes off the alternator, causing the battery to go dead, "we generally are over there in five minutes to switch buses" and in that case "it's really not necessary to report it to anybody".

"But because of this problem, we have come up with a policy where we keep track ourselves of any buses that are broken down, and the reasons, and to what school the bus is going to be late, and then we report it weekly to the board. If there are complaints from parents, they (the board administrators) have that in front of them. They know what the problem was at that particular time".

LaRue stressed that the problem experienced with the Blairhampton bus which sparked parents' complaints had nothing to do with safety. The bus simply had a starting problem in wet weather, he said.

"As far as the mechanical safety of the buses is concerned, our mechanics have to follow MTC rules." Buses must pass mechanical fitness tests every six months, and once a year, wheels and other components are removed for thorough inspection.

The MTC also carries out spot checks throughout the year, LaRue said.

The number of breakdowns occurring to Northern Ways' buses is not inordinately high, according to LaRue.

The company operates 27 buses around the county, and according to his records, "from September to January we had, in a period of five months, 14 breakdowns. That means the buses were either late getting to school in the morning or something happened at night on the way home". With an average of 20 school days per month, over the five-month period, the company's buses experienced a breakdown "less than half of one per cent of the time," LaRue said.

Board members indicated at Tuesday's meeting that the age of the company's buses might be a contributing factor in the breakdowns, but LaRue disagreed.

"As far as the age of the vehicles is concerned, we have 27 contracts, and we have 20 vehicles that are 1975 or newer," LaRue said. Last year, the company purchased six 1980 vehicles, at a cost of up to $27,000 each for a 72 passenger model.

"We do have some older buses here," LaRue said, but he said they are used on shorter runs, where a minimum of highway travel is required.

The company also keeps "approximately six or seven" older buses in roadworthy condition to be used as spares in case other buses break down.

"We do that at our own expense," LaRue said. "That's a service that we provide that is now shown anywhere in the contract".

LaRue said the company is trying to update its fleet "as fast as we can".

"We would be more than happy to put all new vehicles on the road if the board were willing to pay for it," LaRue commented. "Then we would have no breakdowns whatsoever, although I don't think the taxpayers would like that".

"I really think that the people are getting good service," LaRue said, "and I think that this is being blown way out of proportion".

ed the land is used for logging operations, trapping, canoeing, hunting, deer feeding projects and snowmobiling.

"We don't look at it as if it is a vast undeveloped land," Dewey said to council.

If a provincial park could be established in the township, most of these activities would have to be curtailed because they are not compatible, Dewey said.

Minden buys truck

Anson, Hindon and Minden council has accepted the tender of $49,200 including trade-in, for a six-ton diesel truck with dump box and snow plow from Boice Motors in Haliburton.

Tenders for the truck were opened at the May 13 council meeting and council appointed a committee to review the prices.

The final decision to purchase the vehicle was made at last Wednesday night's meeting.

However, leaving the area under crown ownership makes it easy to "control what occurs there", and in turn allows the ministry to carry necessary programs that will aid in forest management, Dewey explained.

"We certainly don't want to upset the ecology (sic) ... we're talking park of course, because we don't know any alternatives," councillor Pergolas said.

But Morose told council that investigations of Hindon Township had not uncovered a suitable area for a provincial park. Although the ministry's plans do call for a provincial park to be located in the Minden District by the year 2000, Morose said that most of the prime areas for development are owned privately.

"If you have any place you feel is suitable, we'll look at it," Morose told the council. He explained that a good cross section of resources are required to have a good provincial park. A good beach, waterfront, campground and trail systems are

Real estate board challenged to play bigger role in politics

Advocating that real estate boards act as pressure groups, the mayor of Mississauga last Thursday challenged local real estate agents to take a more active role in government, particularly at the local level.

"I challenge you to get involved," said Hazel McCallion, in a speech to close to 100 realtors who were in Haliburton for a day-long regional real estate seminar sponsored by the Haliburton and District real estate board.

The best way to ensure that things change for the better, said McCallion, is to "get back to the grass roots of politics".

Instead of writing letters to the premier, which she said "are a waste of time", or relying on some other group to speak out on pending legislation and government policies, local people, including real estate boards, should communicate their feelings to municipal, provincial and federal representatives.

"Make a list of things that concern you and sit down and ask them," she said.

"Tell them what your problems are".

Cooperation is the key to effective government, McCallion told the realtors.

"We all must work together".

"I get really concerned when (ratepayers) think that I as mayor, and municipal councillors, can solve all the problems," said McCallion.

"We can assure you, we can't. We can only respond and encourage and maybe pass legislation".

It is "extremely important that there be far more co-operation between real estate boards and local government," McCallion told the realtors. One of the main problems politicians face, said the Mississauga mayor, "is the request for more services, less bureaucracy, and no increase in taxes".

She said local real estate boards have a role to play in helping to get the message across to people that the demand for services, coupled with rising costs throughout the economy, means property taxes cannot be frozen or reduced.

But while McCallion pleaded for more understanding on what local governments can, and cannot do, she was critical of higher levels of government.

"I believe the federal and provincial government should cut their spending," she said, claiming "they waste more in a single day" than most municipal governments spend in a year.

But she held out little hope that the federal and provincial approach to spending will change in the near future, because people have yet to realize that what she termed "government handouts" are merely money taken from one taxpayer's pocket and returned to another.

"And yet the government (of Ontario) achieved a majority on spending promises," McCallion said.

"I don't blame them for doing it, because the people buy it".

McCallion said local governments, which are and should continue to be more accessible to the people than upper levels of government, have a role to play in helping to direct the country out of some of its problems.

"Maybe we, at the local level, are going to have to give them some ideas about what should be done" to control interest rates, as one example, the mayor said.

Real estate agents "have to sell houses," said McCallion, "but you better be a part of the county, and you better be working with your local government to see that some of these problems are solved".

"How can we solve the problems of the country? By all of us getting involved".

McCallion received a standing ovation from the audience.

Truck stolen, 14 year olds charged

Two 14-year-old boys from Lindsay have been charged with a number of offences including the theft of a truck from Prentice Roads, south of Minden.

Police say that shortly after 7 a.m. last Wednesday, William Prentice reported that his 1981 four-wheel drive pickup had just been stolen from his driveway by two teenage boys.

At 10 a.m. that morning, police received a call from West Guilford where two youth's were attempting to steal a car from the parking lot of Steven's Hairdressing.

P/C Terry Brown was dispatched to the occurrence, and on the way, he observed the stolen Prentice vehicle travelling west on Highway 530, and turned around to follow it.

The truck then attempted a left turn onto a side road, but crashed into a ditch, causing

Straight talk

It isn't often that politicians get standing ovations when they address non-partisan crowds. But Mississauga's fiery and forthright mayor, Hazel McCallion, got just that when she addressed a real estate sales conference in Haliburton last Thursday. It was clear that the audience hung on her words. What remains to be seen is whether or not they will follow her advice.

McCallion, unlike so many others who share her vocation, takes a common-sense approach to politics. She is, she says, basically conservative, with a liberal point of view, and a strong social conscience. And what she advocates is public involvement in the process of government.

According to McCallion, people depend too much on others to do the job for them. They feel ineffective in the face of governments' power and they quail at the cumbersome bureaucracies those governments, particularly at the provincial and federal level, erect. The solution? Stand up and be counted. And for McCallion, that doesn't mean writing a letter to Bill Davis or Pierre Trudeau. "A waste of time," she says. Instead, people should "get back to the grass roots". They should take their MP's and MPP's to task, grilling them on key issues. They should band together into lobby groups, or use existing organizations to put pressure on local representatives. And, she said, local people and local organizers should be prepared to propose solutions to key problems.

McCallion's approach assumes a certain wisdom and responsibility on the part of individual citizens which she admits, society collectively does not always manifest. She rails, for example, at voters' gullibility when it comes to government goodies. She notes that the Conservatives continue to be elected in Ontario by lowering taxes before elections and raising them shortly after. But she holds out hope that people can make things better by getting serious about their own political power.

Her views may seem naive to committed cynics, but they make good sense in times that seem to be lacking it. Far too often people take the view that government is "them" and the ordinary man, the little guy, is "us". But governments, although they don't always make decisions that reinforce the notion, are in fact "us". And whether or not they are effective governments depends directly on the extent to which we are willing to accept our responsibility for more than the few seconds it takes to mark an 'X' in the polling booth.

Governments, as McCallion knows perhaps better than most people, are motivated less by philosophical commitment than by a desire to stay in power. And it is that fact which makes them open to public input. Governments simply must listen to the voters if they hope to survive more than a single term. And voters must recognize that it is they, not politicians, who hold political power in the balance.

The courage and the commitment to speak out are not always easy to find. But, as McCallion suggested, without them, we can never hold out hope that governments will be both effective and benevolent.

Letting them know

Some members of the Haliburton County Board of Education may have been a little extreme last week in so forcefully expressing their concerns over school bus breakdowns, but the trustees, who concluded that at the very least a better reporting system is needed, had a point.

Parents have a right to expect that school buses will run on time, and for the most part, they do. But there are times when even the best maintained vehicle will break down. And when that happens, parents expect to be informed about the length of the delay. Notification enables some parents to arrange alternate transportation for their students. It brings others the peace of mind of knowing that their children are not left standing out in snow or rain awaiting a bus that will not come at the usual time.

In most cases, parents are informed about delays. But when they are not, or when the delays are frequent, as they were in the case of a bus that had parents in the Blairhampton area up in arms recently, the board is justified in demanding that the bus operator, whether an independent or large company, makes some changes.

Trustee Leroy Eager suggested that one solution to the problem might be found in equipping all buses with two-way radios. That way, a central dispatcher could be informed of delays or breakdowns, and could pass the information along to the board and parents immediately. But the cost would be prohibitive, unless radios powerful enough to work in the hilly landscape of Haliburton County were standard equipment on all new buses, and unless the board was willing to subsidize the extra cost that would be incurred.

A more practical solution, and one that would keep both parents and the board happy, would be to require that drivers notify not only the company about breakdowns when they occur, but the board office, which could then ensure that all parents along the route are kept informed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Are you aware that the fine young people of our county are being exploited? They are being taken advantage of. There is a manufacturer making it; there are retail stores in Haliburton selling it; our young people are buying it; a beer-like malt drink in a beer-styled bottle.

You don't have to look very far in our own county to see how alcohol can easily be misused. It can kill, it can destroy a personality and it can destroy a family. The use and abuse of alcohol should not be glamorized. Our young people are being taken in by the mood of the day and a slick promotional gimmick.

If we don't stand up and say something, what kind of attitudes and behaviours are we condoning? If one reads the papers it seems that this is an age of violence and hate. The caring concern and loving part of people is there. If we are going to help people learn to care about others we must start helping them care about themselves. If you care you cannot let this product and the attitudes it will foster, go by unchallenged. We must do something. Our young people are worth it.

When county warden Murray Fearrey noted last month that the time may have come to consider changing the county's status, he was not openly suggesting a restructuring of the existing municipalities. Yet anyone who has ever looked carefully at a map of Haliburton County will no doubt, have been led to the conclusion that the present system of nine municipalities and one improvement district doesn't make a whole lot of sense in 1981, even if it did 100 years ago.

Is, for example, Lutterworth so different from Minden Township that it needs its own council, its own clerk, its own roads department, its own by-law enforcement officer? And what is there in the Snowdon Township of 1981 that justifies its status as a separate municipality? Surely it would make economic sense to link Lutterworth to Minden and Snowdon to Minden or Dysart and dispense with the redundancy of separate municipal office and separate councils.

The same thing could be said of Stanhope with respect to Minden or Dysart. Glamorgan, Cardiff and Monmouth could be combined into one municipality, linked in various ways to existing municipalities. A restructured county could have four or five councils and municipal bureaucracies instead of the present 10.

And what would the results be? Probably a system of municipal government in the county that would be more efficient rather than less efficient, and probably an overall saving of tax dollars.

If the suggestion for restructuring were made at county council, it would be greeted with a hue and cry, of course. Most local politicians, no doubt, would not want to see the system change, and some ratepayers might also view it as a threat.

But like it or not, the matter will have to be considered not only in the interests of costs, but in the interests of improvement, which is often held back by the insularity and just plain stubbornness of smaller municipalities.

Along the marshy shores of Ontario waterways, the water lilies are emerging, and so are one of the most ancient creatures of the marsh, the snapping turtle. The mossy back and sharp-ridged tail of this scavenger of the marsh may become a rare sight, however, if the fears of researcher Martyn Obbard are correct.

Obbard has been studying the snapping turtles in part of Algonquin Park, and has turned up a fascinating life history. After emerging from deep in the mud where they spend eight months of the year, the turtles establish home ranges in shallow water. Most of their food is vegetation, but the strong jaws of a snapper will ambush a frog or minnow if one happens nearby. Snapping turtles are long-lived, up to 25 or 30 years, but they seldom produce young before the age of 8.

These turtles lay eggs in sandy banks, and Obbard found that some females in his study area travel up to five miles just to nest. Once the 30 or so eggs are buried in sand, the mother returns to her marsh. Almost half of the nests are ransacked the

If there was ever a time in the history of mankind that everyone could enjoy a good laugh that time must be now. If we want to face reality it would appear that most of the news is bad, bad and bad. On the national and international fronts we seem to be faced with listening and seeing the same gloomy newscasts on the television and radio each and every evening. It would appear that it is the same situation we would find ourselves in if the weatherman told us each and every evening that it was going to rain tomorrow. When you watch the news on television tonight chances are you will be looking at the following news stories: More unrest and bombings in Northern Ireland; more problems in El Salvador; another child murdered in Atlanta, Georgia; more labor trouble and strikes here and there; and thrown in for good measure, you can always count on the usual number of murders and strikes. This isn't the kind of news that will send you off to sleep with all those sweet dreams in dreamland. Quite the contrary, it can put us all in a state of depression with the feeling that there's nothing left in life to give us a happy outlook and there just isn't any good news anymore.

There is plenty of good news right here in Haliburton County, in Ontario, in Canada and around the world happening each and every day but it's the kind of news that just doesn't make the national at 11 p.m. Let's look at the brighter side of the news and list a few of the good things that are happening where people are helping people. Thousands of people are being helped each day by other people who care in an attempt to kick the alcohol and drug habit, thanks to many people who are taking the time off from their busy schedule to visit lonely people for a chat and a few words of encouragement. Men from various walks of life are coming forward to be a big brother to boys who are without fathers. I could go on and on listing these wonderful acts of kindness and although the news these days does seem to be all bad we can go to bed at nights knowing that there are still plenty of people left in this land who are turning bad news stories into good news.

I always get great enjoyment from listening to a stand-up comedian such as Bob Hope, Henny Youngman and the others doing their stuff. During a recent interview Bob Hope had this to say, "You know how you go to a party and you hear laughs coming from the corner of the room. That's the place you head for, because you know you are going to feel better." He went on to say that he loves to hear the latest jokes. "I'm on the phone a couple of hours a night, talking to all my writers, to comics all over the country. A comedian remarked once that the best medicine today is a good laugh," Hope said.

We had a very interesting news report handed to us last week and we are anxious to hand it along to you. It appears that early Wednesday morning at about 6:30, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Drysdale of Minden, Ontario, were on their way to keep an early morning appointment they had at St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough. While crossing the Minden bridge they decided to post their mail at the Minden Post Office. Before going to the post office they just happened to glance across the river and what did they see but two yearling moose, walking side by side toward the bridge. The two moose continued to the front of Ron Gambell's white house, turned down and swam the river coming up onto the street opposite the gas tanks at the Minden Texaco garage. They hesitated awhile, then ambled on over with heads outstretched to the gas tank. They turned and then proceeded to run back across the street and into the bush. This apparently was quite a sight and it is very unfortunate that not another person was on the street to see this early morning entry of the moose into town.

Things seem to be travelling so fast in the Village of Haliburton that it's hard to get them stopped. Rumour has it that we are going to have another attraction for the local people and visitors. We hear that a train on rubbered tire wheels with five or six coaches will be put in operation soon by some of the local businessmen. From what we can understand it will feature a tour of the village and the outskirts with a stop at slide ride.

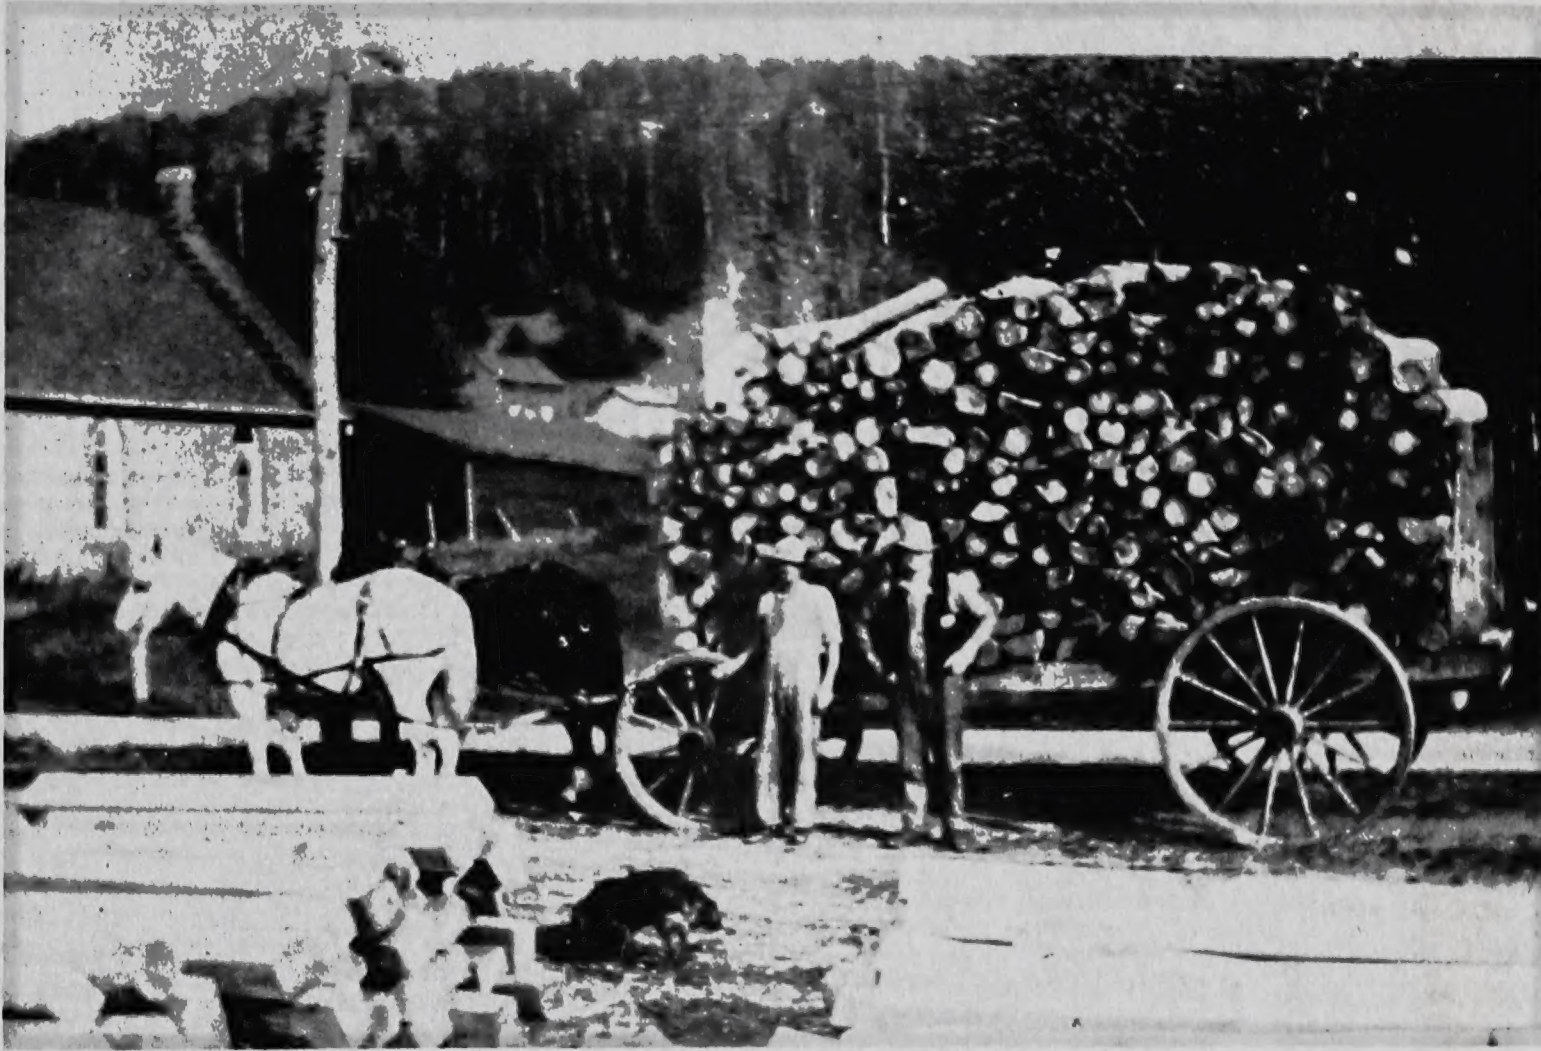

Surely to goodness the people in this area can find another name to use in place of the word Highland. This word, at the present and in the past, has been worked to death, worked overtime and in other words, it's becoming stale. If we are starting a new business or an organization it would seem to me that the word Highland is used because we are too lazy to search for another name. I couldn't believe my eyes the other day when I noticed a poster with the word Highland Tennis Club on it. Really, who are we trying to fool? It's the Haliburton Tennis Club not the Highland Tennis Club. It's fine, in my opinion, when we are talking about the Highlands of Haliburton to use it as many times as we can but otherwise, as I have said before, let's give it a rest.

There was frost in Haliburton County on Sunday evening and some people have been alarmed to think that we would have frost at this time of the year. A friend of mine was telling me that we had frost on June 8 last year. You would be wise to keep the plants covered up at night for a little while at least.

Who was it who said there's no fish in the Highlands of Haliburton? Just last week we were talking to one of the more ardent fishermen in the area and he was telling me that there has been good reports on the excellent luck that fishermen were having in various lakes in the Highlands of Haliburton.

Here's a definition of summer -- That time of the year when the highway authorities close the regular roads and open up the detours.

Pic of the Past

and C.W. Hodgson. The load of wood was coming from Austin's slab yard (where Bud Thayer's home is now located) and the men would be continuing on from here to load it on box cars located nearby to be transported by rail to other centres.

Bill Smiley

Two waves swept over me the other day. No, I wasn't on the beach at Waikiki or Monaco or even such plebeian places as Florida, California or Mexico, which are now frequented by us common people.

And no, I wasn't drowned, as I know you were hoping. (Two waves. Maybe we won't have to listen to Smiley's blathering any more.) I can swim like an aging, arthritic seal, and it would take more than two waves to do me in. The first wave came when someone announced at school that the price of pop in cans were going up by a nickel. I was swept by a wave of nostalgia for the days when pop was a nickel.

And then came the second wave, one of revulsion, as I realized that inflation had done, not only to pop, which is irrelevant to a decent life, but to many another cherished aspect of our daily living.

Being swept by two waves of strong emotion is not an easy thing to cope with, and I had to fight off students who crowded around, saying: "Are you alright, sir? Can we get you a Coke or something? (They'd never think of a stiff Scotch). Maybe he's had a stroke and we'll get a day off." And so on. A moving experience.

But I was so upset by the twin waves that all day I kept calling Shakespeare George, Bernard Shakespeare and Dylan Thomas, Bob Dylan. My students didn't know the difference, so it didn't really matter.

That night, however, I looked back on the experience and realized what it was. I had been exposed to mal du temps, and barely rescued by la memoire du fin de siecle. I hope nobody will cancel subscriptions because of the last paragraph. I am not trying to shove bilingualism down anybody's throat, and I think Pierre Trudeau is a... well, you know what I think.

What all that bad French means is that I got a pain in the ass, then one in the pocketbook, both relieved only by memories of times past, accompanied by the inevitable association that I'm just about ready to be put out to pasture. Except that nowadays they just send the horses to the glue factory. O.K., glue factory, here I come, and if I can even make a couple of things stick together, I'll still be two jumps ahead of a millionaire who hasn't been able to make one marriage stick together.

Ah! Those golden days. When a nickel would buy you: a Pepsi, a cup of coffee, a phone call, a chocolate bar three times as big as those anemics of today, a good (?) cigar, a ride on the carousel or the Ferris wheel.

When a dime would buy you a hamburger, a piece of homemade pie, a Saturday matinee, three eggs, a good (no question mark) cigar, a draft of beer, a bottle of milk, a loaf of bread. It's true, you unbelievers.

Those were the days when two boys received from a minister of the church one dollar and a half for working eight or nine hours cleaning up the huge grounds on which his huge manse was located. My older brother got the dollar, I got the half. The minister complained about a few leaves.

A couple of weeks ago, I engaged a young man and his crew to clean up our yard. I cost me $175. I didn't complain at all.

Who, you'd think do it yourself, you'll ask. Laziness, business, sore back, and the fact that I can't get any young people to rake leaves any more, even for three or four dollars an hour. They get an allowance from their stupid parents that makes that sort of demeaning labour not worth looking at.

But that half-dollar from the manse was wealth, to me. It meant ten bottles of pop, five matinees, a night at the movies with a girlfriend.

I asked the young entrepreneur who did my place how his business was going. Only in his twenties, he sounded like a right-wing conservative. He claimed that young fellows don't want to work anymore, don't do a decent job when they do work, don't show up for work, and are generally unreliable, shiftless, irresponsible, and plain lazy.

"Then how do you get guys like the ones who worked so hard at our place?" He admitted that he had to get someone who was hooked on motor-bikes or racing cars, and needed money to supply the habit.

In my day, of course, if you had a habit, it was something as expensive as biting your fingernails or sniggering at off-colour jokes or drinking so much Pepsi you got pimples, which wrecked your love life, which was non-existent anyway, so it didn't matter.

I'll never forget the time I found a dollar bill, in the snow. It was the first one I'd actually ever held in my hands. I dreamed of eloping to the South Seas with a girl I had my eye on in grade five.

But it was not to be. There was certainly enough money there, and I think she'd have gone with me. Her parents were on relief. But it was not to be.

With considerable pride, I told my mother about the dollar. She promptly went all Presbyterian on me, took the buck from my grimy paw and announced that we'd have to find out who'd lost it.

That was my last chance to run away. I don't know what happened to the dollar bill. It probably went into twelve pounds of hamburger (yes, it was three pounds for a quarter, with some "dog bones", now known as stewing beef, thrown in free.)

I don't quite know the moral of this column. Maybe it is: Never trust your mother. But I don't think so.

first night by foxes and raccoons. Since the eggs need 90 - 120 days in the warm sand to incubate, many of the young fail to emerge before winter and are killed by frost. Amazingly, the sex of the turtles that hatch is determined not by the parents, but by the temperature of the sand - the warmer the sand, the higher the percentage of females.

Snapping turtles in recent years have become much sought after as a gourmet delicacy, and the annual take in the Lindsay district alone is 25 - 30 tons per year. Almost all of this turtle-trapping is done by Americans, whose native waters have already been cleaned out of snapping turtles. Obbard warns that a population such as this, which normally is very slow to reproduce and which has low natural mortality of adults, simply cannot stand such exploitation. He suggests that we need regulation of their trapping, under the authority of the Minister of Natural Resources, and protection of their nest sites.

Queen's Park Report

by MPP John Eakins

Many constituents are still writing and commenting on the budget of May 19. What that budget contained or did not contain is a reality of March 19. It is a reality of what happens under a majority government. Last fall, and before the election, you will recall the government did not increase taxes, due to the impending election. Now with a majority, the people have been zapped.

The change in the gas tax to an ad valorem basis means that this government now has a vested interest in seeing the price of oil increase, since every time the price goes up, so does this government's take. It is pointed out that the 20 per cent tax on gasoline means the government will now profit more than Alberta from price increases, and that this tax is the most pernicious and cynical that this government has ever imposed on the people of Ontario.

The increase in personal income tax is also an unconscionable tax grab at a time when consumers are already reeling from the ravages of interest rates and inflation. It is incredible to me that a government would choose to take more money out of the consumer's pocket, thus reducing discretionary income, at a time when the economy is flagging, and particularly when just six months ago that same government reduced sales taxes in order to stimulate demand. These tactics are inconsistent and foolish, as well as a deliberate betrayal of the Premier's commitment of February 2, on calling the election, "to combat inflation through ...avoiding tax increases".

The increase in OHIP premiums, a regressive and punitive form of taxation, by 109 per cent over a 5-year period, only further erodes the average consumer's ability to make ends meet in these difficult times. Alternatives such as payroll taxes or financing health care from general revenues are used in seven other provinces and have been recommended time and time again in Ontario. These alternatives are far more equitable, but this government has refused to consider them.

This budget is nothing more than a $603 million tax grab from the taxpayers' pockets.

What is desperately needed is a budget that addresses the problems of high interest rates and inflation and their impact on individual consumers; that sets out a positive, concrete plan for economic recovery and revitalization of the manufacturing sector; that proposes measures to stimulate new wealth creation and to encourage applied research and development; that commits the government to skills training programs that will prepare our young people for the challenges and opportunities of today's workplace; that actively supports small businesses, and that rededicates the government to ensuring excellence in our schools.

Tour Train for Haliburton Village

It was certainly hoped when things were finalized on the development of the slide ride in Haliburton that it would encourage further attractions to be created as a spin-off. The first such development is now official. A "Tour Train" pulled by a jeep, similar to those in use at the C.N.E. has been purchased from the Stratford Chamber of Commerce by Steve Bowskill and a group of Haliburton businessmen and is scheduled to move visitors from the Sky Slider through main street, the park, by the Gallery along the lakeshore and all the way up to the Museum in Glebe Park. Assistance towards the operating costs will be sought from the municipality and there is no doubt that they will see the benefits in the project.

It was a concern of some business people that much of the traffic generated by the Sky Slider may not be capitalized upon if visitors simply participated in the ride and left, without taking in the other sights and facilities in town. The train should help tie it altogether now and in particular should go a long way to improving attendance at the museum.

The PineStone Inn, The Sky Slider and the forthcoming Tour Train all have one thing in common. They are or will become major factors in the development of tourism here in our county. Without them, or something like them our economy would very definitely suffer. They are with us now because men of vision saw the potential and put the plans together, and other men of vision were willing to invest in those plans--not so much for personal profit, but to help make it work for all of us. The Ontario government also provided some low interest (by comparison) financing through the Ontario Development Corporation which, of course, was also of key importance. We should be very grateful to those who made these things happen, and encourage that type of continued cooperation which will cause more great things to happen in our midst.

West Guilford boy skating to NHL heights

by Len Pizze

In a sport where egos are often as big as the pay cheques, Bernie Nicholls is a refreshing change. Personable and unassuming, but with a self-confidence nurtured by accomplishment, the West Guilford native speaks matter-of-factly about the years of dedication that have brought him to the brink of fulfilling his dream of playing in the NHL.

In some ways, his story reads like a Canadian cliché. But like all clichés, it speaks a simple truth; a truth about what it takes to land a three-year contract with the Los Angeles Kings at the age of 20.

At two, Bernie Nicholls donned his first pair of skates and, clutching a chair for balance, learned to propel himself around the rink his father had made in the yard of their home. At four, he was practising with a stick and puck on that little rink, and by the time he was old enough to play organized hockey, he was already showing signs of the agility and grace that mark an outstanding hockey player.

His parents didn't put pressure on him in those years, Bernie says, and they still don't, but they did do all they could to ensure that he got as much ice time as possible.

'My dad drove a million miles for me to play hockey'

"My dad must have driven a million miles for me to play hockey," Bernie says, recalling his years of moving up through the ranks of local OMHA teams.

A star player in his first year with the Haliburton Midgets, it was soon clear that if his hockey career was to advance, he would have to move away.

Craig Stamp, who was then playing senior hockey in Woodstock, suggested that Bernie come to that town to play for the Woodstock Navy-vets, of the western Ontario Junior B League. Bernie knew he had to get away from Haliburton if he hoped to be scouted by bigger teams, but at 16, the change was not easy to make.

"It was tough for me at first," Bernie recalls, "but it was good for me too".

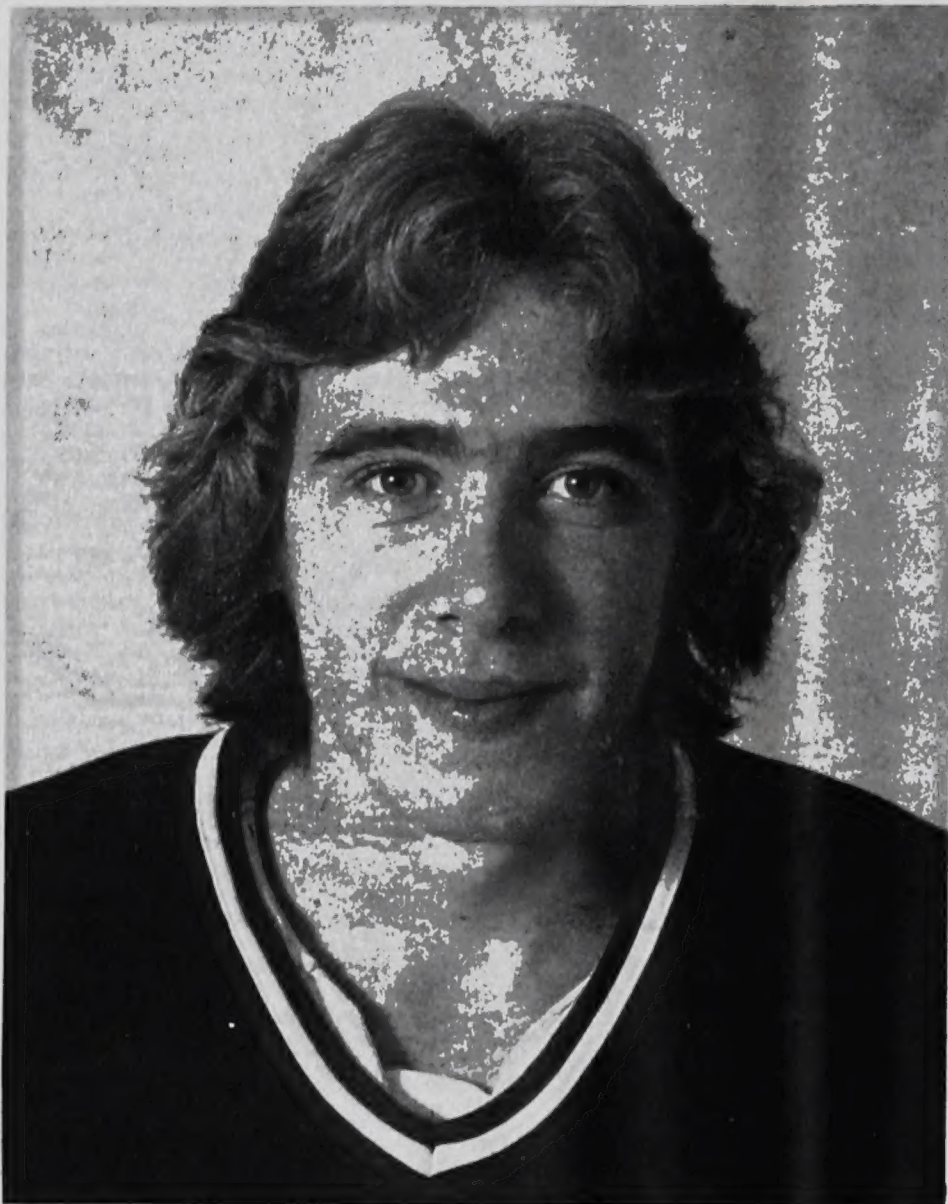

Being able to live with Craig and Sherry Stamp during that year in Woodstock helped, he says. It kept him just that much closer to the familiar surroundings of home.

Bernie made his year in Woodstock count. By the season's end, he had picked up the most sportsmanlike player of the year award, the rookie of the year award, was the team's leading scorer and the third leading scorer in the Western Ontario Junior B League.

In June of 1978, he was selected by the Kingston Canadians in the sixth round of the over-age Midget draft.

Although they could only guess at it at the time based on some solid scouting reports, the Canadians had made an excellent choice.

In the fall of that year, Bernie joined the North York Rangers of the provincial Junior A league, a Kingston farm team. By the end of the regular season, he was the team's leading scorer, racking up 40 goals and 60 assists in just 50 games. And he continued to leave the chippiness to others, serving a total of only 62 minutes in penalties during the season.

'I wasn't quite sure I could make it'

In spring of 1979 he got his first taste of major Junior A action, when the Canadians called him up to bolster their playoff effort. His scoring skills were as sharp as ever, and his determination to do well helped him to play a prominent role in the Canadians' wins during that playoff series. In the fall he was given a spot in the Canadians' regular lineup. The dream was beginning to come true.

"I always thought about it (the NHL)," Bernie says, "but I wasn't quite sure I could make it." He had the skills, the finesse, a knack for being in the right place at the right time, an ability to set up the big plays, and he was also a solid team player, but could he stand out for the Canadians as much as he had stood out for North York?

It didn't take long for him to prove to himself that he could. He found out that he could still score goals when it counted, and at the end of the 1979-80 season, he was selected by the Los Angeles Kings in the fourth round of the NHL entry draft.

That meant he was eligible to attend the Kings' training camp last September.

It would be a daunting thought for most people, but Bernie knew he wasn't expected to make the team. The Kings just wanted to see what he looked like scrimmaging alongside other hopefuls and NHL veterans.

"I don't think there's really any pressure" when you're under age, Bernie says. "You just try to do the best you can".

After the training camp, Bernie returned to his regular spot on the Canadians. And if he had escaped pressure at the Kings camp, he was not about to escape it in his last season with Kingston. He was, he says, "playing for a contract", trying to show how good he was so that the Kings would be willing to pay top dollar for his services when the time came to negotiate a contract.

Early in the season, Bernie told the press that he intended to break the team's scoring record and in 1976-77. His point total of 152 was 17 more than any other Kingston Canadian had ever recorded.

Los Angeles responded with a three-year contract with an option in the third year. If Bernie makes the lineup and plays well, he can exercise the option, renegotiating after two years. If by chance he does not play well, the Kings must continue to pay him in the third year.

The money, of course, is good. But for Bernie, hockey is more than a job. It's a passion. And he disagrees with accusations on the part of some hockey fans and commentators that big salaries have diminished the game.

"You play because you love the game," he says. "I think if the guys didn't get paid hundreds of thousands, they'd still be out there playing".

'You've got to give it your best shot' finish with at least 150 points. To accomplish that, he would have to almost double his 1979-80 output of 79 points. The press admired his confidence, but they were skeptical.

"For a guy who scored 79 points in a full season last year, it's somewhat like moving from squirrels and crows to a lion safari," said Claude Scilley, writing in the Kingston Whig-Standard, "but Nicholls believes he's got the ammunition and so far the expedition is on target".

"I was always more or less natural at scoring goals," Bernie says. "But a lot of it is just wanting to".

"You've got to go out all the time with the attitude that you want to do it, and that you're going to do it".

"Whoever wants it most is going to get it". And he did. In 65 games, he scored 63 goals, breaking the former record of 61 set by Ken Linseman in 1975-76, and tallied 89 assists, topping Tony McKengney's former mark of 77 set

To prepare for the training camp, which opens September 10 in Victoria, B.C. Bernie is running and lifting weights, something he has not done in past summers, when there was less at stake. He will also be working at Hockey Haven Camp, and expects to practise on his own once the day's work is done.

"I've got to be in the best shape this year," he says. "It's a big step. A lot of times you only get one chance, so you've got to give it your best shot".

The Kings were weak at centre last season, and Bernie feels sure he can crack that lineup. He views the challenge as just one more in a long series of challenges he has set for himself over the last 18 years.

"After all I've been through, I know I can make it," he says simply.

And a lot of people are pulling for him to do just that.

Squash club plans extravaganza

The Highlands Squash Club has announced that their Annual Extravaganza will be held this year on Saturday June 27 at the ball field in Haliburton. (Curling Club if rain). The Extravaganza will include as usual The Monster Rummage Sale, home baking sale, craft sale, consignment booth, fresh flowers, games for kids, fancy cake raffle, pottery raffle, firewood raffle (10 cords), refreshment booth with cold, pop, hot dogs, coffee and doughnuts.

In addition, following their tradition of introducing something different each year to gladden your hearts, they are pleased to announce the new, exciting, "First Annual Highlands Back-a-frog Sweepstakes". There are 24 thoroughbred racing frogs entered, all of which were especially selected at the tadpole stage for speed and endurance, and will be in intensive training at Swampy Stables until the day of the big race. Their trainer, Alan "Ribbit" Rydman says, "The careful attention to the selection of good breeding stock and the training methods employed at our stables will ensure a competition of the highest standard. From the moment they don the silks until they streak across the finish line, you will know you have been watching champions".

For a $2 donation to the club's Improvement Fund, you can have a chance to name one of these thoroughbreds and have him run for you in the big race on June 27.

All entries received will be put in the Big Green Froggie Drum. Each Saturday at 6 p.m. six names will be drawn and one of the racing frogs will be allotted at random to each of the winners to carry their name to glory. Winners, with their frog's names will be published in this paper weekly. All other entries remain in the drum for all further drawings. So, the earlier you get your name in the drum the better your chances of getting a frog. By June 20, 18 thoroughbreds will have been allotted and the remaining six will be drawn on the morning of the race.

There will be two elimination heats:

Heat 1. - 12 frogs - post time 11:00 a.m. The first frog over the line wins $20. First three advance to the finals.

Heat 2. - other 12 frogs - post time 1:30 p.m. First frog over the line wins $20. First three advance to the finals.

Final race - post time 3:00 p.m. Winning owner takes purse of $100 and the names of owner and frog take place of honour on the presentation cup. Second place receives

Two men's teams tied for first in league

by Sue Cooper

As the Haliburton men's recreational softball season moved into its second week of play, the field started to shape up as Kennedy Surplus' squad and the Legion had managed to pick up two wins and a loss each while the other three teams trailed with one game apiece.

The week started off with Curry's motormen trouncing Haliburton's Lumbermen 11-2.

Although the lumbermen were quick in the field in the top of the first inning, picking up three grounders for a double play and two singles, the motormen squeaked in one run.

Two strike-outs, courtesy of the motormen's pitcher, and a nicely played grounder ended the lumbermen's turn at bat.

Curry's men strengthened their win in the second inning as one batter was walked home and another runner made it across the plate on a grounder to second base. At the end of the second inning the motormen were leading 3-0.

The teams were then at loggerheads until the motormen got another break in the top of the fifth. Mark Schell got a piece of the ball to put him safe at second base and an error by the catcher allowed John Wilson to get to first base. Roy Scott was the next batter to get to base and the innings runs were wound up as Roy Burk came in across the plate. It looked like an easy win as the motormen were leading by seven runs.

They kept on pushing the lumbermen and came up with another four runs in the next inning. Ron Perrin started off with a single and advanced around the bases as Wilson hit a grounder to the short stop and Scott and Mike Carpenter walked to first base. All four managed to come home before the third out was called.

In the seventh the motormen were put out quickly, but the lumbermen would have to use all their steam to get a much-needed mark on the scoreboard.

Although the first batter was put out, a good eye by Dwight Sisson gave him a free trip to first and a single by Kevin Sisson sent the pair on their way.

A sacrifice hit by Jeff Wynn and a single by Ted Vasey assured the lumbermen of two runs.

The win was given to Schell with the loss shared by Dwight Sisson and Vasey.

Kennedy Surplus' team also managed to come out on top of the LaRue squad as it edged by its opponents in the final inning of the game. While both teams came up with one run in the first inning (Lee Bull for Kennedy's and Scott LaRue for his team), a shot of adrenalin in the second inning landed Kennedy's team well into the lead. Peter Lymburner set the tone as his home run put another mark on the score-sheet. Brian Mulholland was the next man on base and a single put Gary Burch right behind him. Dave Nicholls connected to get to first and Gary McKnight followed suit. All five came home to make the score 6-1.

The team added another marker in the top of the fourth as Nicholls came home with the help of this team mates.

But LaRue's team kept up its slow and steady pace in its bid to win the game. Paul Wilson's double put him in the right position to add up another score for the team.

In the fifth, Sid Cooper moved onto the pitchers' mound for LaRue's and struck out the first three batters who stepped into the box.

And with renewed vigor the LaRue team added two more runs in the bottom of the inning.

Bob Johnston and John Robinson came in across the plate for LaRue's team and the score was getting close with LaRue's team only trailing by two.

In the sixth, Cooper claimed two more batters and the third out came on a fly ball to second base.

In the bottom of the sixth, LaRue's squad tied the match at seven runs apiece when Cooper and Johnston came home for the points.

In the seventh, Jerry Walker's run put the Kennedy team back in the lead but it was short-lived when Vince Hammond came across the plate.

With the score tied, the teams moved into a period of overtime and Nicholls came home on a second base hit and a little help from his team mates.

But LaRue's team wasn't to be put out of the game that easily as Johnston chalked up the much-needed run.

In the top of the ninth, Mulholland and Burch came home for Kennedy's team as Cooper ended their turn at bat with two strike-outs.

In LaRue's team's last chance at bat, a fly ball to second base and two quick plays on grounders soon ended the game in Kennedy's team's favour.

The winning pitchers were Mulholland and Brian Shaw while Johnston and Cooper shared the loss.

The Legion picked up a strong win over Curry's motormen on Thursday as they defeated their opponents 9-3.

The Legion started off with a run in the first inning from Bernie Nicholls before two fly balls and a strike-out ended the frame.

With Curry's up to bat, the legionnaires were playing tough but they allowed two runs, to Carpenter and Perrin before two strike-outs by the pitcher and a fly ball to right field ended the scoring.

Two costly errors at third base for the motormen allowed Paul Morissette and Ray Goulet to get on base and in turn, home.

Both teams were kept off the scoreboard in the third inning but the legionnaires were able to notch up two runs in the top of the fourth. Mike Rae came in across the plate as Nicholls blasted a home run.

Wilson wasn't to be outdone though, as a triple hit put him in a scoring position. Mike Carpenter then connected for a single to bring Wilson home. The score now stood 5-3 for the Legion.

The fifth inning probably won the game for the legionnaires as they sent four men across the plate. Jim Schefee, Morissette, Bob Nichol and Nicholls all made the grade before the inning ended.

Although no more runs were scored during the game, the players tried their best but in the end, the legionnaires didn't even need their last chance at bat to take the game.

The next games are scheduled for Thursday evening when the Haliburton lumbermen will meet LaRue's team and Curry's motormen will face Kennedy's team.

Irondale and Snowdon win season matches

The first season for the Snowdon, Irondale, Ingoldsby and Galway ladies softball league got underway as two games saw Snowdon and Irondale win their matches.

Ingoldsby lost its game to Irondale as the mighty team pulled ahead and didn't even need the last half of its inning to take the title. The final score was 32-25.

Snowdon also won its first skirmish in a close 25-23 victory. Anne Burk and Audrey Vick claimed the victory while Brenda Longhurst was the losing pitcher.

It was anybody's game as Snowdon lost the lead at the end of the third inning and then managed to get it back in the end of the sixth frame. The Snowdon team managed to hold out over Galway in the final minutes to take the game.

Black Bear rally postponed

The Black Bear Rally, fourth event in the 1981 Interprovincial Rally Championship, has been postponed due to the wet conditions in the forest areas north of Minden, Ontario, where the greatest part of the rally was to take place.

David Paisley, spokesman for the Maple Leaf Rally Club, said the constant rainfall during the past week has made the forest roads soft and that could result in excessive damage to them. The club has made the decision to postpone the event until later in the summer, when conditions should be more favourable, Paisley said.

Also Monday night the two Minden teams played with the Minden Juniors coming up on top over the Dixie Lee Homestead girls by a score of 12-8. The Juniors were led by Cheryl Dillon at the plate and on the mound, Nelda Cully had a good night in a losing cause.

On Tuesday night the Gooderham team travelled to West Guilford. The West Guilford team won with the winning pitcher being Joan McKay.

Also Tuesday night Haliburton played in Minden against the Dixie Lee Homestead team. At the end of the first inning Minden was ahead 10-4 but Haliburton fought back and won 27-17. The Haliburton team was led

On the same weekend, June 12, 13, 14, the Haliburton Kinsmen once again present their Home and Cottage Show at the Haliburton arena and curling rink. There is also a dance at the Legion on Saturday in connection with the show. Information Centres Members are reminded that the Information Centres are gearing up for the busy summer ahead and they need your brochures, fliers or whatever you have to assist in getting business to your door. The Chamber office at Minden is now open seven days a week and will begin extended hours of operation on June 22. There is no charge for any Chamber member to display advertising.

The Information Caboose at Haliburton is operated by the Municipality of Dysart et al in cooperation with the Chamber and accepts advertising from both members and non-members. They are presently open weekends and will be open seven days a week as of June 22.

In Cardiff the municipality operates an information centre in a restored log school house on Highway 28 just east of McGillivray Road and they will be happy to have your brochures for distribution. For details of their hours contact the municipal office at 613-339-2323.

Ministry Advertising

The Ministry of Industry and Tourism is continuing with a very high powered promotional campaign that should generate an economic impact of seven billion, five hundred million dollars. Their "Yours to Discover" theme has gained wide recognition and is rapidly gaining on the "I Love New York" theme which has had such acclaim. The 32-page supplement, which most of you received recently with your weekend paper was distributed to 2.1 million Ontario homes and 5.8 million U.S. homes for a total circulation of almost 8 million. The high profile on promotion is the U.S. market, and stressing in particular the travel bargain in Canada should result in a high increase in U.S. visitors this year. There's a lot of money being spent to bring them here, so whatever we do let's be sure we all "Treat Them Royally".

We'll pay you up to $800 to get off oil heat

YOU'LL SAVE MONEY BY GETTING OFF OIL BECAUSE THE PRICE OF OIL IS ESCALATING, AND WILL CONTINUE TO DO SO.

Heating with oil is a habit Canadians acquired when oil was plentiful and cheap. Today sources of oil are unreliable and increasingly more expensive, so we just have to kick the habit. The habit won't be hard to break because Canada has an abundance of energy alternatives that are plentiful and are ultimately cheaper than oil.

The Canada Oil Substitution Program (COSP), is a major part of the federal government's National Energy Program. COSP is designed to help reduce the use of oil for home heating in every province to no more than 10 per cent of total household energy use by 1990.

COSP is a 10-year program that offers grants of up to $800 covering half the cost of equipment and labour for changing your space or hot water heating system from oil to natural gas, electricity, propane or renewable energy sources such as wood and solar. The COSP grant is taxable.

The oil substitution of a centrally heated building unit that contains two or more self-contained dwelling units can qualify for COSP grants ranging from $1,000 to $5,500.

HOW TO APPLY FOR YOUR GRANT

Those of you who are ready to get off oil, or have switched from oil since October 28, 1980, ask for grant information from:

- your nearest natural gas or electric utility;
- the federal Department of Energy, Mines and Resources (EMR) office, about conversion to wood or solar heat or another renewable energy source. EMR is located at: 2242 Lakeshore Boulevard W. Toronto, Ontario M8V 1A5 Call: (416) 252-5866 or toll-free: 1-800-268-2207

PLAN AHEAD FOR BEST SAVINGS

To start planning your move off oil, the federal Department of Energy, Mines and Resources can help you:

- assess your home's energy efficiency by means of a free computerized EnerSave questionnaire;
- insulate your home under the Canadian Home Insulation Program (CHIP) which provides taxable grants of up to $500.

Insulation is not a requirement of COSP, but it makes sense to have a well insulated home before you change your heating system. The better your insulation the smaller-sized heating system you'll need when you switch off oil.

COUNTY ECHO FAMILY

Timing is important

Training can be simple if proper steps are followed by Catharine Clark

Who took me from my warm, warm cot. Whether I had to go or not. And put me on the cold, cold pot?

My mother. Toilet training. It can mean the end of a beautiful parent-child relationship - at least temporarily. Around 2 to 3 years, each child tries out his independence and toilet training is a part of this social development.

How do you know whether he's ready to start toilet training? Naturally the toddler must have gained a level of control that comes from physical development, he must be able to communicate with you and he must be willing to try. A child is usually physically ready to be trained around the age of two when his control is more fully developed. By then he should have the necessary words to express his needs. Spring is a good time to think about toilet training since he is wearing less clothes. Look for the following clues:

- can you tell when he's having a bowel movement? (physical signs such as pushing, grunting or getting red in the face).
- are his bowel movements becoming regular?
- does he sometimes indicate to you that he needs to be changed?
- is he aware when he's urinating?
- can he understand simple directions?
- has his motor development been normal (does he walk and run as well as other children his age)?

How do you start toilet training? Once you have decided that your toddler is ready to start toilet training teach him the words that you want him to use. When changing his diapers tell him in simple words: "Jason is wet" or "Jason had a BM". Soon he will tell you "I had a BM". Keep a potty in the bathroom for a few weeks so that he gets used to seeing it around. Let him observe you in the bathroom. Tell him that Mommy and Daddy use the toilet for their BMs and soon he will use his potty too.

Bowel training usually precedes bladder training because of muscle development. When you are certain your child is ready to learn to use the toilet, watch for signs that he is having a bowel movement. Ask him if he would like to try using the potty and take him to it if he seems agreeable. Respect his wishes if he really doesn't want to see the potty. Do not force him. He may not need it and will feel badly for not living up to your expectations.

On the other hand, he is close to the "terrible twos" and he may be rebellious in showing his independence. Reacting to rebellion with alarm or anger with intensify the problem. Your first approach should be to persevere, find out how patient you can be and try to understand that the little dear is going through normal social development. Try to respect his wishes and remember that if you ask him a question you have to respect his answer. If he has no choice, make a statement, don't ask a question.

Once you have him on the potty help him to relax and feel comfortable perhaps by staying with him or giving him a toy to hold. Praise any successes with hugs, smiles and words. Help him to do everything possible by himself: getting the potty into position, getting his pants down, getting up and down from the potty and wiping himself. Put a block at the base of the toilet if he needs a step. You'll have to be there to help with diapers as long as he's wearing them. Do not insist that he "stays there until he does something".

Charlene Fountain of Oshawa, daughter of Clara and Ambrose Watson of Highland Junction Road, Kinnmount, graduated from Durham College in Oshawa, May 23 with a certificate in business, with a legal secretarial option. She is now employed at Ontario Hydro in Oshawa.

Never give him Ex-Lax or other laxatives that aren't medically prescribed as this can lead to problems later.

Bladder control will be achieved later in the child's development and waking control comes before sleeping control. Be certain that the child knows how to express his needs in simple, matter-of-fact language such as "I have to pee" or "I need to wet". Little boys should be taught to stand at the toilet from the beginning. Dad or an older brother can set an example.

Each child's response to toilet training is different and the ease in the transition from diaper to potty varies as much as each toddler's personality and temperament. Your youngest child may take six months to train whereas your eldest mastered it in two weeks.

To minimize problems, the parent's approach should be casual and positive. Give supportive statements such as "Good for you, Jason. BMs are hard work and you did it". Don't try to regulate him immediately by expecting him to use the potty every day.

A final word about relapses: they do happen. Accidents are usually caused by changes in routine, a new baby in the family, illnesses, separation from parents and other forms of stress. Toilet training can be frustrating, inconvenient and embarrassing, especially when progress is slow or uneven, but in the end every normal baby masters toilet training without putting himself up for adoption.

Ask Your Health Unit's Infant Development Consultant is a weekly column dealing with the development of children from birth to five years. Issues relevant to this age group such as toilet training, teething, walking, talking, toys and learning to read will be discussed. Any questions you have about your child's development are welcome. Address your comments to: Infant Stimulation, Box 360, Haliburton, Ontario.

Extendicare News

by Dr. W.O. Anderson

This week it is going to be all good because we are told that the Municipality of Dysart et al have given us their permission to build on parkland joining or adjacent to the shed that is now there. Our item last week in this regard can now be taken as pure speculation, bad too at that.

The question of allowing three of our present flower beds to grass over has also been taken into account and John Sissons has kindly agreed to tend their cultivation and make them ready for a nice display of flowers again this year, and further will see to their watering without having to use the slow watering can. Nothing could be better!

We ourselves have completed the planting of the four patio planters, the borders of the three close beds and especially the one at the centre bay window, the cute one. The species included in all of this activity are zinnias, marigolds, morning glories, pansies, sweet peas, (as cute as can be), nasturtiums, (not an off-coloured leaf in the bunch), balsams, (a very stately plant at this time of its growth), alyssum, (we planted three colors but only the white grew to planting material). Those lovely petunias this year are as healthy as can be; even some with frilly petals will be ready to flower in another week. We also planted geraniums, not only the red but any colours. It is a fair list, but even at that we may have missed mention of one or two.

Monday afternoon the ladies are busy as bees at the quilting - Hazel Parish, Flossie Burk, Nina Hussey, Maude Weston, Sylvia Gilbert, the residents, and Amelia Sibley, with Lillian Hague, volunteer helpers and you must watch them sometime to see how much they can do so well in any given interval. Soon another frame will be set up, another quilt will emerge, and another quilting party will be over until another quilt is ready to be quilted.

Meanwhile on the same hour the boys - Norman Titus,

Allan Macklin, John Sisson and Ray Smith were assembling magazine racks without their tutor Charlie Stormer whom we are sorry to hear has been quite ill and hospitalized.

Tuesday morning we greeted June Devolin to lead us in bible study continuing with The Lord's Prayer "give us this day our daily bread". It is interesting that in this context only a day's supply of sustenance is to be asked for but to be repeated day by day, each day separate. Just think of the abundance that is, for everything we receive in any day is from God mostly the oxygen we breathe and the food intake. It has a curious

We started our regular activities on Monday morning with fun and fitness. Later on the ladies went to the craft room to work on their projects. The gentlemen are also beginning to work in crafts. We have started a very interesting project working with wood.

Monday evening the movies were shown in the auditorium. "The Friendly Mountains" was filmed in Northern Italy. We saw the beauty of the Trachino Mountains and witness mountain climbing in summer and skiing in winter. These mountains are a great tourist attraction. "Spectacular Italy" was an interesting film telling us the history of ballet, opera and great symphony music. People from all nations gather here for the World Music Festival every year.

Tuesday morning, Rev. Brewster of Allsaw Pentecostal Church held an inspiring service in the chapel. Our organist, Agnes Taylor accompanied us and Barbara Trociewicz led us in the singing of hymns.

Later in the afternoon, the bus was loaded with bed care residents. These folks enjoyed a visit to Skyline Park overlooking beautiful Haliburton.

Fred Ballard was here for music night on Tuesday evening. We enjoyed listening to his organ music as usual.

There was a good turnout to games night on Wednesday evening. Everyone enjoyed playing euchre and crockinole with our auxiliary members assisting and joining in the fun.

Thursday at one o'clock the Covenant Players paid a visit to Hyland Crest. They entertained us with a few humorous skits. Immediately following the performance, the ladies of Carnarvon U.C.W. served an assortment of sandwiches for the tea party. This week was the special birthday tea. The guests of honour who celebrated their birthdays in May were Mildred Wood, Ida Schell, Mary Grozelle, Della Curry and Victor Spencely. These special people were presented with a beautifully decorated birthday cake by the U.C.W. ladies. We would like to thank the group for the lunch and a lovely afternoon.

The week's activities ended on Friday afternoon with Grace Coburn leading the sing song. Grace led us in the singing of gospel hymns and old favourite songs. Fred Ballard accompanied the singing on the electric organ.

Next week there will be a special wild west day. Everyone will be in western garb and there will be many contests and special events during the day. It will be a fun day and I'll be telling you all about it in Senior League.

Harcourt boys' beaver club

ends year

The "Busy Beavers Boys Club" had their final meeting of the year at Harcourt Community Church last Tuesday. The meeting took the form of a "Father and Son Banquet" in which at least 18 fathers came out to join their sons for a spaghetti dinner and several films afterwards on nature lore. Many boys received a flashlight for coming out for at least 25 of the 29 regular meetings held during the year.

The program for the year was basically broken into three parts - a sports activity led by Charles Hughes, a craft of some sort taught by Paul Way and a devotional period conducted by Jake Pothaar. Two boys from the Highland Crossroads, Patrick O'Brien and Colon MacKenzie were quite faithful in lending their assistance to the leaders.

The boys were quite enthusiastic about attending and the average attendance each week was around 30. Any boy between the ages of six and twelve has been welcomed into the club. Organizers said they are grateful to all people who have offered assistance and encouragement during the year.

The leaders of the Busy Beavers also expressed their deep appreciation for the generous donation of money presented by the parents so that more materials for the club could be purchased and for the beautifully engraved plaque.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD APPOINTMENT FOR HEARING TOWNSHIP OF CARDIFF

IN THE MATTER OF Section 35 of The Planning Act (R.S.O. 1970, c. 349),

The effects of this By-law upon lands within the Township of Cardiff may be summarized as follows:

Section 1

- Section 5.20 of By-law No. 9-79 has been renamed "Existing Permanent Dwellings" and replaces the original section titled "Exceptions", in view of the fact that the Seasonal Residential Zone (Section 8) permits a permanent dwelling under the provisions of this amending By-law.

Section 3

This Section amends Section 3.13 of By-law No. 9-79 by deleting reference to licensing under The Tourism Act Ontario Regulation 390/72 for camping parks, since this Regulation is no longer in force.

Section 4

This Section amends Section 3 of By-law No. 9-79 to add a new definition for "derelict automobile" and numbers this definition as 3.22(a).

Section 5

This Section amends Section 3.25 of By-law No. 9-79 to delete reference to a "mobile home" within the definition of "dwelling", since new provisions have been made in Section 19 of this By-law for a "Mobile Home Residential" zone.

Section 17

This Section amends By-law No. 9-79 by the addition of a new Section 6.2.1.5, which regulates the distance that a single family dwelling may be located from any pit, quarry or mine.

Section 18

Beautiful horses and young foals are a delight that only the spring-time in rural areas can bring. In Haliburton County, residents are blessed by the fact that loggers and farmers still use horses in their daily chores. These horses were grazing in a pasture along Minden's highway 35 by-pass last Thursday. While the horses look nicely groomed the foals still appear to be woolly and slightly wobbly.

Gooderham News

Friends were saddened to hear of the death of Mr. Allan Haywood, who was struck by a car while he was crossing the highway from his home to that of his son. Last December he had celebrated his 80th birthday at the summer home in Irondale of his daughter Vera, with a happy family gathering. Funeral services were held last Wednesday in the Pentecostal Church with Rev. Sauve officiating. Surviving are his wife, the former Irma Robertson, three sons, Ross, Ivan and Mario, all of Gooderham, and five daughters, Beatrice Staley, and Irma Madill of Gooderham, Hazel Madill of Beaverton, Norma Craftchick of Oshawa and Vera Godfrey also of Oshawa. A daughter, Patsy, at three months, predeceased him. He also leaves 14 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the family in their hour of sorrow. The kindness of those who brought lunch and helped serve it after the funeral is deeply appreciated by the family.

Mr. Roy Hadley of Peterborough was in Gooderham on Wednesday to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Allan Haywood. He had just a short time when he visited old friends who were pleased to see him looking so well. His son, George, of Lindsay, accompanied him.

Congratulations to Tammy Dewey! She won the Early Childhood Education Award for being the best all-round first year student at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Peterborough. Keep up the good work, Tammy!

At the Senior Citizens' Club last Wednesday a bountiful pot luck supper was enjoyed by 26 members. Plans were discussed for the raffle of a handcrafted quilt, two local oil paintings and a basket of groceries to be held at the time of Gooderham Horseshoe Days. Many pre-ty and useful knitted and crocheted items for a bazaar table were displayed. After a short business period, the members divided into groups to play cards or scrabble or just to visit. Our meetings start at 6 p.m. every Wednesday. Come and join us then!

Promises of God

The wrath of God is being revealed from heaven against all the godlessness and wickedness of men who suppress the truth by their wickedness, since what may be known about God is plain to them, because God has made it plain to them. For since the creation of the world God's invisible qualities - his eternal power and divine nature - have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse. parallel to another quote he made "Why for spend your substance for that which is not bread?" We are indebted to June for her efforts in our behalf.

Bingo in the afternoon was noteworthy in that there was only one volunteer helper, Betty Wise, but just the same we had a very good game with Pat Burk supervising. Speaking of volunteers, we should mention quite a number of the Happy Gang are regular volunteer helpers and to name a few - Alice Hartle, John Sisson, Ray Smith, Allan Macklin, Norman Titus, Sylvia Gilbert and a few others. The help they give adds up to many hours in a week but a long, long way from self-sufficiency.

Rev. John James brought in a group of characters from south of the border - Allan Noel of Salt Lake City, Utah, the unit leader; Beverley Ritchie from Sedalia, Miss.; Bruce Mille of Lincoln, Nebraska; and Carol Hancock from Plymouth, New Hampshire. In just a few minutes these folk put on four skits: "The name of the game", "A moral a day keeps the concerns away", "Listen" and "These two together". The chief feature of the group called the "Covenant Players" was character acting which they did to a tee.

In the evening a meeting was held of the Happy Gang Wheel Chair Van Fund committee acting wholly on behalf of the Happy Gang, chaired by Sheila Elston and present were Glenn Austin, Jack Bassett, Peggy Neville and Watson Anderson. We now know pretty well what we want in a van to give the best performance with the minimum of upkeep. A sub-committee is now to meet with a committee of the Haliburton County council to try to explain the role of the Happy Gang in this whole endeavour. Wish us luck!

Thursday noon Pat Burk bussed 15 of us to the Dysart Community Centre to meet with the senior citizens of Haliburton for a pot luck dinner. This is quite a popular outing for us that unfortunately excludes those of us who are in wheel chairs. We are warmly greeted and it is incredible to us that these generous citizens wait until the extendicare residents are served first. Grace was sung, this time a really brief musical treat with the ladies' voices taking the lead. Near here is where the famous Haliburton slide ride comes to its finish and the riders take the lift chairs for another ride. Luck is always with us at these pot luck dinners, with amiable company, tasty food in plenty and superb coffee. Thanks!

Three movies were shown Friday afternoon, Ray Smith projectionist - 1. "The Thirty Mile" showed a 'thirty' mile equestrian event in which the riders vied with one another in displaying as many points of excellence in horsemanship and of their care of their mounts. 2. "The Cry of the Marsh", in which the word 'marsh' means the habitat of myriads of wildlife. It would seem from the film that ecology, meaning the study of this habitat, is set aside in the name of the progress of civilization. 3. "Age of the Buffalo" showing schematically the devastation of the millions of these creatures of the Canadian and American plains. It is possible that it was an orgy so bad that history will be unable to properly put it on record.

In the evening we attended the "Shot in the Dark", a play put on by our local little theatre, a performance that would compete favourably with any professional outside group. It is a shame sometimes that one of the infirmities of age is a diminution of hearing. No one can say "speak louder" and a PA system would distort.

Lieut. Ron Mailman with his trusty guitar of the Salvation Army in Haliburton, accompanied by officers Amelia Sibley, Lillian Hague and Agnes Bull made an unscheduled visit here to give us a nice session of spiritual music and message. The Lieut. informed us that this is his last visit to us as he is being transferred. He will be greatly missed.

by Phyllis Briscoe

"Be pretty if you can, be witting if you must, but be agreeable if it kills you."

After a week's travelling we are back to our household and garden chores and Ontario weather. It rained all last night and is still at it this a.m. Someone told us it had rained pretty well all week so the gardens must have their quota. I haven't had a chance to look at mine to see if anything had sprouted while I was away.

The Haliburton Highlands Rug Hooking Group planned the bus trip to Kennebunkport, Maine, and there were four of us from Dorset fortunate enough to be able to avail ourselves of it. There were 44 on the bus plus our geniel driver, "Joe" Gillogly. The capable convenors of the trip were Margaret Federchuk, Joan Stinson and Peggy Barclay. After leaving Ontario at Montreal we travelled through the beautifully scenic states of Vermont and New Hampshire before entering Maine. We spent the first night in the mountains of Vermont at 4000 feet above sea level with a lift that goes up another 2000 feet. A beautiful spot, it has up to 12 feet of snow in the winter. Apparently the skiers flock there. Through the rolling hills of New Hampshire there were lumbering areas and cattle farms with lovely old farm houses, some over 100 years old. Kennebunkport is a popular summer resort and is right on the ocean with many beautiful old homes built by sea captains in the eighteenth century. While there we visited the studio of Joan Moshimer, who is well-known in rug hooking circles, who showed slides of very old rugs made by the pioneers when they had to do their own dyeing, etc. They were very beautiful. It was a fun trip and there were many jokes about the "happy hookers" and Joe was presented with a shirt with "I drove the hookers" on the back. Joe was an excellent driver and added a great deal to the trip. Congenial, accommodating and capable, he left no stone turned to see that everyone was comfortable and happy with the situation. The Dorset ladies would like to thank the Haliburton group for including them in their trip. Maine, with its beautiful beaches and lobsters, is well worth visiting.

The Dorset Lions club held their annual mother and daughter banquet on Thursday, May 28 with between 40 and 50 attending. There were numerous badges given to girls who had earned them. Gloria Morris was presented with a Resident Camper's licence which she had earned. The presentation was made by past commissioner, Barbara Nangle. There was a fly-up of four Brownies into Guides. Members of the Dorset senior club helped serve the meal and wash up, relieving the mothers of the task so they could enjoy the evening.

caught fire. She says they came by boat, car and truck and did everything in their power to save the cottage which belonged to Mr. Bellis.

Carnarvon News

I think it is about time some Carnarvon news appeared in the Echo. I know we missed it when we were in Florida.

An exciting item is that Alice and Bill Chambers are proud grandparents of bouncing twin boys, born to their daughter Cindy and husband in Fort McMurray.

Another baby has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barclay. Congratulations.

After spending several weeks in England, Anne and Max McKay have returned and report a good time.

Gail Barnhart, a budding artist, has again won a week at the Guild of Fine Arts.

Roean Barnhart, Mabel Russell and Mr. and Mrs. Colman were in Norland on Saturday to attend a meeting of several Sunday School teachers from different areas.

We are sorry that Mr. David McKinley Sr. is in Sunnybrook Hospital. His wife is staying in Toronto to be near her husband.

The Happy Wanderers entertained a very enthusiastic audience on Thursday evening in the Lions Club Hall. As always the musical program was varied and offered music for any taste and the Dixieland Band from Fenelon high school were very good, too. Its too bad we can't have more of this type of entertainment because there is so much so-called entertainment that is far from being entertaining. To Doug Merritt and his musical group, you were great!

The local business folks have worked hard placing, filling with earth, painting and flower planting the many huge pots around town. They are to be commended. The flowers are not in full bloom yet and let's hope everyone appreciates their beauty and will help keep them attractive. Please, please, whoever you (or they) may be, do not destroy the flowers!

Someone or some people wrecked the aluminum door at the local laundromat. The owner is very concerned and wonders how he can remain in business with such vandalism. We need the laundromat and we trust the owner does not have to close up shop because some people would rather destroy than build up. Really, what advantage or thrill is there to destroying other's property?

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Branch 519 held their election of officers last week with the following results: president, Jean Barkwell; first vice president, Wilahmine Scott; second vice president, Isobel Kilpatrick; treasurer, Jean Callan; secretary, Marion Clark (Base-line Road); Sgt. at arms, Marla Berry; executive, Edna Pearce; "Tots" Gwen Barkwell, Monica Hall, Margaret Burmaster, Lulu Brentnell. Sports officer, Norma Herbert.

I accompanied Leitha Greston (of Ingoldsby), Edith

Johnston of Haliburton, and Verna MacDonald of Lutterworth Pines to a meeting at the Sundial in Orillia on Tuesday afternoon. It was a pleasant afternoon as always.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Jewell of Peterborough and Mr. Charlie Brohm of Miners Bay, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Faulkner one day last week and dinner visitors of Mrs. Annie Marles another day. Mr. Jack Horner of Toronto, a cottage resident of Shadow Lake in the summer, was buried in Lindsay's Riverside cemetery recently, after a long spell of illness.

Fred Auston is adding an addition to his house and is making good progress.

I haven't been over to the park to watch a ball game but the cheers from spectators and fans can be heard many evenings. It's a great way to spend a summer evening.

Boating and swimming season are here once again. Do be careful and don't become a statistic this year. Too many are careless on the waterways.

We are enjoying a weekend visit from Bob, Marilyn and family this week from Stroud.

Trent Severn News

Reservoir storage in Haliburton declined a further 3.1 per cent by May 25 when 96.9 per cent of the maximum remained. Only four lakes out of 35 were still over the 100 per cent of normal maximum storage level. Rains and reduced flows from these lakes probably would have resulted in only minor changes in the stored volume by May 29.

Kawartha Lakes which were slightly overfilled a week ago still retain a surplus. Due to the repeated rains and threats to navigation of resultant high flows the surplus will be reduced over the next couple of weeks. Evaporation losses have not yet begun to be felt this season.

On the Severn River section the flow was less than the long term average for May with a small surplus yet remaining on Lake Simcoe-Couchiching.

There was a good turnout for the children's concert last week when Bill Gliddon directed the Wilberforce elementary school pupils in a skit built around the theme that it is a privilege to be a Canadian and part of a great mixture of nationalities and cultures. A glum group called the Miseres were overcome by the Canada Goose and his happy followers. The children sang a number of lively songs and performed with great gusto. Monmouth school trustee, Buster Anderson, thanked the performers and Mr. Gliddon when the evening drew to a close. There were a number of people who later complained that sitting at the back of the hall it was very difficult to hear words from the stage.

Speaking of Canada Geese

again, a small flock of these birds rested at Lake Wilberforce during the weekend. They seemed to be very tame and showed no alarm at the proximity of people or the noise of cars. One wonders if they became tired in their flight and paused to rest.

They departed in the evening and we wish them good luck on the rest of their journey.

Ethel Saunders provided a meal for the birds. She lives close by and took time off from a party that the family were having for Ethel's mother, Mary Young. Mrs. Young, who lives with her daughter Rachael Evans at Benoirs Lake, was celebrating her 92nd birthday. With her were several of her children who live in Wilberforce, Bill Young, Marjorie Tighe, Gertrude Godfrey and Ethel Saunders. Mary was in good health and enjoyed with the rest, their refreshments of cake and ice cream.

A big event took place at the Burroughs home in Harcourt on May 25, when Tammy Burroughs' mare Belle gave birth to a lively little filly. Everyone is pleased with the little foal who is an exact replica of her mother whose colouring is a beautiful chestnut shade with a white blaze on her forehead. The only difference is the addition of three white socks on the filly. Dr. Shortt, our respected vet, was on hand to administer necessary medication. He had been waiting for this event before taking off on a well-earned holiday. Tammy has not yet determined a name for the new arrival but you may be sure it will be a handsome one.

The firemen's bingo games for the summer months begin Thursday, June 11 with a jack pot of $300. Games held at the Memorial Centre and start at 8 p.m.

Farm News

Mastitis has been a serious disease problem in dairy cattle for many years, costing dairy farmers large amounts of money in lost production.

The major problem has been trying to detect mastitis before it is at the serious level. A new testing device is now available to help dairy farmers identify the presence of mastitis in milk at an early stage. This test is by means of a somatic cell count and is located at the Central Milk Testing Laboratory in Guelph.

Mastitis is an inflammatory disease of the udder caused by bacteria infections. Symptoms of serious mastitis infections are swollen quarters and changes in milk. However, in the common sub-clinical form, milk appears normal and the udder shows no sign of infection. Over 95 per cent of mastitis infections are at this sub-clinical level.

Dairy producers have relied on milk gel indexes and the California paddle test to detect sub-clinical mastitis. While these methods provide the producer with some indication of the level of the disease, they are not too accurate and often are not precise enough to detect a problem when it is just starting.

The somatic cell counter electronically counts the number of somatic or body cells in the milk sample. A somatic cell count reading of 250,000 or less indicates mastitis is reasonably well under control. When the readings are over 300,000 then treatment is indicated to be necessary.

The somatic cell counts could be done on dairy herds which are participating in the D.H.I.C. and R.O.P. programs. The milk sample which is taken from each cow to determine the fat level is also used for the mastitis detection.

It is hoped that this new testing system will assist Ontario dairy farmers in reducing the level of mastitis infection in their herds.

New Hog Stabilization Payment

Federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan has recently announced a stabilization payment for market hogs.

These hogs must have an index of 80 or above. Only those hogs marketed between April 1, 1980 and March 31, 1981, are included in the program.

The payment amounts to $8.96 per hog marketed minus any provincial stabilization payments.

Maximum number of market hogs eligible is 5000 per producer.

For anyone enrolled in the Ontario Sow-Weaner Stabilization Plan, a deduction of $3.36 will be made from the federal payment of $8.96 for the first 1600 hogs sold. All hogs shipped by a producer, over 1600 and up to 5000 will receive the full federal payment.

If a producer is enrolled under the Sow-Weaner Program and ships 2400 hogs per year, the payment will be as follows: For the first 1600 hogs -- $8.96 - $3.63 equals $5.33/hog. For the other 800 hogs, a full payment of $8.96 per hog will be made.

Anyone who is not enrolled in the Ontario Sow-Weaner Plan will receive the full payment of $8.96 for all market hogs shipped, to a maximum of 5000.

Applications will be mailed to all producers who made a claim under the 1979-80 Federal Hog Stabilization Program. Forms will also be available from Farm Credit Corporation offices.

The Ontario Pork Producers' Marketing Board will be asked to provide producers with a summary of hogs marketed during 1980-81. This statement will be required when making a claim.

must have the action participation of our traditional ally the United States."

Copies of the new film, in both 16 mm, 1/2-and-3/4 inch videotape formats, are being made available to U.S. network and local TV stations to promote greater public support for stiffer emission controls in the U.S. The film is available in both English and French.

As of June 1, the films and tapes will also be available in both Canada and the U.S. at no charge for showings to schools, colleges, and universities, conservation groups, civic and church groups.

Acid rain movie to be released this month

Ontario Environment Minister Keith Norton has released a new movie, "Crisis in the Rain", a 26-minute documentary which the ministry believes will help enlist public support in the battle against acid rain in both Ontario and the United States.

The movie highlights the causes and damaging effects of sulphur and nitrogen emissions on both Ontario and northeastern U.S. lakes and rivers.

The film's message: Ontario must have the cooperation and effective action of the U.S. to beat the acid rain problem.

Said Norton at the recent Acid Rain Conference in Buffalo: "Ontario is playing a leading role in the Canada-U.S. working groups which are laying the groundwork for the urgently needed air quality agreement between our countries...but no matter what we do about local abatement in Ontario, we cannot fight the battle alone. We would like to thank Mr. Harold Kennedy and his fellow Shriners for the tickets they gave us for the Shriner's Circus in Peterborough. We drove down in the three cars and our first stop was the Kentucky fried chicken place to get refreshments. At the circus we saw trapeze, bears, elephants, lions, poodles, but best of all was a man running in a big huge ring as the ring turned, and as the music went faster and faster and faster, the man ran faster and faster and faster. We all had a really good day.

We appreciate the treats brought in by our friend Dr. Christianson. Everyone at A.R.C. Industries would like to thank you.

On Monday everyone helped to plant our garden. We are excited to see it grow.

We do appreciate the Eagle Lake ladies coming in every Tuesday to help us with our cooking program.

We started cutting lawns last week. We have 14 lawns to cut, so we will be busy all through the summer.

Monday, May 25, Bob Nimigon came back to work. He had been on holidays for five weeks with his Mom and Dad. They went to Vancouver to visit his brother. His brother took them on a big boat up the Campbell River on a sight seeing tour. Bob had a chance to drive a big fishing launch.

On Wednesday, we went to the Rail's End Gallery to the basket show. There were very old antique baskets, Indian baskets from the Curve Lake Reserve, very small bird's nest, and some very nice baskets made by a blind boy. We had a very interesting time.

Murray and Wyatt were on two work days at Steve Bowskill's. We raked up leaves and piled wood and got bitten by black flies.
